

The Room Is Your Comfort Zone

The room is your comfort zone so fill it with books stagnant on your to-read list and stuffed animals you should have left at home but you're still clinging to that feeling of childhood, you know, how fairies might be real and one time they took your dislodged tooth and left a coin and flower and next they might take you and you won't have to worry about being stuck on math tests and friend tests and growing up and leaving, but now you've left and you're more stuck than before because [REDACTED]

The room is your comfort zone so Blu-Tack your birthday cards to the wall but [REDACTED] there's a stretch of white left bare [REDACTED] see [REDACTED] course schedules and counselling instructions [REDACTED] an unfinished beaded bracelet spelling out your name [REDACTED] that's all [REDACTED] now it's useless just like—

The room [REDACTED] so keep your door locked [REDACTED] you have [REDACTED] time [REDACTED] no one's waiting outside [REDACTED] and shit, you [REDACTED] know, it's best to [REDACTED] leave [REDACTED] that adrenaline, that feeling of risk [REDACTED] might [REDACTED] take you [REDACTED] and then—

The room is [REDACTED] so [REDACTED] dark [REDACTED] inside [REDACTED] you [REDACTED] sit [REDACTED] still [REDACTED] conversations [REDACTED] on paper [REDACTED] the [REDACTED] hidden [REDACTED] don't need any [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] one [REDACTED]